

Rachel Valentino came highly recommended for her knowledge of the D.C. condominium market, and in particular, her expertise assisting first-time homebuyers. In our experience with Rachel, she proved to be a consummate professional. She was terrific at keeping our needs and wants in mind and opening our eyes to new areas of D.C. that we were unfamiliar with. Rachel was always very responsive no matter what time of day or night we called or e-mailed, and made herself available to view properties on very short notice. Although we were looking at real estate at the very bottom of the D.C. price range, Rachel always treated us like V.I.P. clients, which we greatly appreciated. If people can be judged by the company they keep, then it speaks very highly of Rachel that all the professionals she has referred us to have been top-notch. From our mortgage broker to the locksmith, even right down to the neighborhood pizza joint, Rachel's referrals have made moving into our first home a smooth transition. We always felt that Rachel truly cared that we found the right home for our family and that is why I would recommend her to anyone looking to buy real estate in Washington, D.C. I know that when we are ready to move up from our "starter home" Rachel will be the realtor we call.
