

My experience with Valentino Associates was a 10. Ben is fantastic and everything from communication to problem solving was expertly handled. I had to move quickly and aggressively on house and Ben put together just the right offer with the right features, which ended up making the difference, since the other bidders offered a similar price. I felt they listened to my needs and help me reach my goals. They are honest, trustworthy and always acted in a professional manner. I would happily recommend them to family and friends.
