

Real estate agents usually drive me insane. Rachel did not. My boyfriend and I found her to be a complete professional--bright, detail oriented and committed to helping us find a place that was right for us. I was deeply impressed with her knowledge of the DC market and the way she handled our purchase--she listens carefully and provides excellent advice with unfailing patience and poise. I would not hesitate to call her again and feel fantastic about the new place we found with her help.

In short, Rachel is not just all about the benjamins.
