

Rachel Valentino is the consummate professional; from the very start of my home purchasing process to the very end, Rachel was responsive, informative, and continually had my best interests in mind. She listened to my requirements and desires and perfectly tailored our time-constrained efforts in response to these needs.

But Rachel was not simply a great realtor; she also engaged me on a very personal level that assured me the piece of mind to successfully push through the rather stressful and trying process of a home purchase.

I would recommend Rachel Valentino to my friends, family, and peers alike. I will certainly utilize her expertise and high energy level in my next sale or purchase and anybody else who does will immediately have a leg up on the competition. Thanks Rachel!
