

Working with Maria was one of the best decisions we made in our home buying process. At every step, she was responsive, helpful, and creative. She was refreshingly honest with us about the pros and cons of potential houses and suggested neighborhoods we had not otherwise considered. Given our budget and criteria, we knew that we would face steep competition along the way, but Maria never lost faith that we would find the right place – and she was right. We could not be more thrilled with our new house, and we have Maria to thank for all of it.
