

My wife and I are somewhat new to D.C. and were both first time home buyers; we had no clue the first steps of home buying, what to expect, really no clue what we were getting ourselves into other than we knew we wanted to look at buying. We contacted Rachel Valentino, she met with us, sat us down with a large binder of steps we needed to take to get the process moving and really helped us wrap our heads around the process of home buying. She was so patient with us. She set up a site that offered homes in our area for our price range so we could get the feel for what we wanted. She gave us names of loan officers she had worked with that she knew to be great people. And when it was time to buy, she was a bull dog, getting us more (Storage, parking, sq. footage) than we ever thought possible. . . Plus, when we moved in, she helped us with painters that she had worked with that were unbelievable. She helped us from point A to point Z and beyond in this process, and my wife and I couldn't be more thankful for her in our corner during such a big time in our life (First home). Rachel and her team are truly amazing.
